Government Officials Search For Evidence of Perjury In Senate Committee's Hearings

Washington, March 23—(P)—Federal law enforcement officials set to work today on evidence of perjury and suspicions of tax evasion provided them by the senate crime committee's dramatic hearings into underworld operations.

The committee itself called a one-day lull after giving a bumpy Capone gang figure another chance to avoid contempt charges. It promised to produce shortly a pair of long-missing witnesses.

The group asked the Justice Department to study the record of its sensational New York hearings and determine whether anyone should be prosecuted for lying under oath. And a house committee asked federal officials to check on possible income tax frauds.

O'Dwyer Is Facing Tax Evasion And Perjury Inquiries

New York, March 23—(P)—John P. Crane, Firemen's union official who testified to passing out big-money gifts to various politicians, refused today to comply with a demand that he quit a national post in the union and promptly was suspended from that office. Crane waited until 10 minutes before the noon deadline set for his resignation by the AFL International Association of Firefighters before announcing his refusal to comply. The international announced his suspension as a vice president shortly after noon.

New York, March 23—(P)—Former Mayor William O'Dwyer faces income tax and perjury probes stemming from a disputed testimony by a city firemen's union boss that he gave O'Dwyer 10,000 as "evidence of the support" of the firemen.

The firemen's union official, who is under grand jury investigation on other scores, gave the testimony before the U. S. senate crime probe committee.

Income tax and perjury investigations also are in store for James J. Moran, long time friend of O'Dwyer who now is U. S. Ambassador to Mexico.

The investigations, ordered yesterday by the crime committee, now meeting in Washington, resulted from the New York hearing testimony by John P. Crane, president of the AFL Unifromed Firemen's Association.

Crane swore he gave $10,000 in cash to O'Dwyer and $55,000 to Moran, the former in a political campaign and the latter as good-will offerings.

O'Dwyer and Moran both told (Turn to Page Thirteen)

Styka's "Crucifixion" to Go On Display Tonight After Half Century of Obscurity

Glendale, Calif., March 23—(P)—One of the world's great religious paintings, Jan Styka's "Crucifixion," goes on display tonight after half a century of obscurity.

The mammoth oil—45 feet high and 195 feet long—is believed to be the world's largest on a Biblical subject.

The unveiling at Forest Lawn Memorial-Park, a Glendale cemetery, will be the highlight of dedication ceremonies for a $1,500,000 building erected to house the work.

Styka's canvas is a panoramic view of the ancient walled city of Jerusalem. In the foreground is the Hill of Golgotha, where the citizenry has gathered to watch the executions. Its more than 1,000 life-size figures are dominated by the praying Christ, pictured moments before he is placed on the cross.

Its creation and the reasons for its obscurity are quite a story. Jan Styka, who died in 1925, was a Polish artist internationally renowned for religious scenes. He was best known for 15 paintings and 100 sketches which illustrated the novel "Quo Vadis," a tale of Christian martyrdom in Nero's Rome.

He did the "Crucifixion" at the behest of Ignace Jan Paderewski, late Polish premier and pianist, who envisioned a painting that would be an inspiration to the Christian world and reflect glory on Poland.

Styka journeyed to the Holy Land and spent eight years doing research and sketching ruins. Then he knelt before Pope Leo XIII, who blessed his palette and brushes. The vast canvas, made to order in Belgium, was brought to Lwow, Poland, where Styka was given the city art gallery for a studio.

He painted furiously, 10 and 12 hours a day, for years. That his research paid off is evidenced by the painstaking detail. Identifiable in the background are Herod's Palace, the Tomb of David, the Palace of Pontius Pilate, the Roman Amphitheater, the Market Place and the Gardens of Gethsemane and Gabbatha.

MORAN TELLS PRESS OF RESIGNATION—New York City Water Commissioner James J. Moran, seated, is shown reading his letter of resignation to members of the press at his home. Moran, given an ultimatum by Mayor Vincent Impellitteri to resign or be fired, quit the $15,000-a-year lifetime post following testimony by John P. Crane, Unifromed Firemen's Assn. president, before the Senate Crime Investigating Committee. Crane testified he had given $55,000 in "goodwill gifts" to Moran when latter was an aide of former mayor William O'Dwyer.

Thousands of Pilgrims Make Traditional Pilgrimage Through Historic Jerusalem

Jerusalem, March 23—(P)—Thousands of devout Christians made a Good Friday pilgrimage through crooked streets in old walled Jerusalem today as a drought described as the worst in 80 years plagued the Holy Land.

Holy Week devotions neared the joyous Easter Sunday climax after weeks of sunny, clear weather.

Pilgrims—hundreds from abroad—today followed the storied route taken by Christ as He carried His Cross to Calvary.

Some groups, retracing Christ's steps as usual carried with them large wooden crosses through the winding and narrow cobblestoned streets.

"The 14th and last station of the 'Via Dolorosa' is the tomb in the Holy Sepulchre where Christ's body was believed taken after His death on nearby Calvary.

Tonight, in a medieval Roman Catholic service at the Basilica of the Holy Sepulchre, a symbolic figure will be taken from a cross, bathed, anointed and laid in a tomb.

Archbishop Albert Gori, Roman Catholic patriarch of Jerusalem and the Holy Land last night washed the feet of junior priests in a Biblical re-enactment in front of the basilica.

A solemn resurrection service Easter morn, heralded by the ringing of the basilica's many bells, will be attended by a large number of foreign diplomats in the Holy Land.

MAY REOPEN PLANT AT ERIE FOR DEFENSE

Washington, March 23—(P)—The plant of the Aluminum Forgings Co. at Erie, Pa., may be reopened for defense work, a government spokesman said today.

However, the reopening is not a certainty. A spokesman for the General Services Administration (GSA) said many persons have indicated an interest in operating the government-owned plant.

For that reason, he said, a fair rental price has been determined and interested parties have been instructed to tell GSA by March 30 if they are willing to rent the plant on GSA's terms.

History's Largest Television Audiences Expected to Witness Impressive Movie

Hollywood, March 23—(P)—The largest television audience yet—40,000,000 persons—is expected to watch a movie this weekend about a hill in Korea and another hill—Calvary.

All 107 television stations in the country and the four networks (ABC, CBS, NBC and DuMont) will carry the movie "Hill Number One" at least once. Most stations will carry it two or three times and some five.

A Family Theater radio version of the Crucifixion and Resurrection story will be heard by millions more throughout the world Sunday night over MBS and the Armed Forces Radio service.

The story of "Hill Number One" will depict the Resurrection and Crucifixion of Christ as told by flashbacks from Hill 46 on a Korean battleground.

DENT SCORES HIGH COST OF CIVIL DEFENSE

Harrisburg, March 23—(P)—A $20,000,000 fund proposed by Gov. Fine for emergency civil defense use came under fire today.

Sen. John H. Dent, senate Democratic floor leader, termed the proposed reserve fund "an incentive to bring politics into the civil defense program."

"There is no need whatsoever to set money aside for possible defense use," Dent declared. "In time of emergency the defense program could easily obtain needed money from the state's general fund."

Fine, in his budget message Monday, recommended that the general assembly appropriate $20,000,000 to finance the cost of the state's civil defense program for the next two years.

He said that only $1,200,000 of this amount would be required to administer the civil defense program, and that the remainder of the $20,000,000 should "be considered in the nature of a reserve to be used only in case of absolute necessity."

Dent said, however, that if the general assembly makes such a large amount available at all there will be "great temptation" to make use of it, "one way or another."

Instead, he declared, the general assembly should give civil defense administrators only enough funds to set up the program adequately in the state.

"Then, if there should be a war or extreme emergency, the defense leaders could easily go to the state for more money," Dent added.

He indicated he would raise the issue on the senate floor Monday when he gives what he termed a "full dress rehearsal" of Fine's $1,200,000,000 state budget for 1951-53.

TEMPORARY LINK ON THE PENN'A TURNPIKE

Pittsburgh, March 23—(P)—When the western leg of the Pennsylvania turnpike is finished about Nov. 1, a temporary link will connect it with the highways of Ohio.

This was the outcome of a 3½ hour parley between Ohio and Pennsylvania road officials yesterday.

Ohio plans a 232-mile turnpike across the state from Pennsylvania to Indiana but has not started construction.

Pennsylvania's turnpike, a four-lane divided toll road, runs 260 miles from Irwin, Westmoreland county, to King of Prussia, near Harrisburg. A western link, now under construction will run from Irwin to the state border, near Petersburg, O.

Unless something is done, Petersburg will be flooded with more traffic—about 7,500 cars a day—than the town can handle.

PRESIDENT BACK IN CAPITAL FOR EASTER

Washington, March 23—(P)—President Truman returned to Washington late yesterday after his three weeks' vacation at Key West, Fla.

He was met at National Airport by several members of his cabinet and by Mrs. Truman, about whom he asked before spotting her, "Where's the boss?"

Tanned and looking fit, he said "I had a good trip and I worked hard."

DIES AT CORNELL

Ithaca, N. Y., March 23—(P)—Dr. Edmund Ezra Day, former president of Cornell University, died today of a heart attack as he drove his automobile. Dr. Day, 67, was driving through Ithaca with a daughter, Miss Betty Day, when he was fatally stricken. Miss Day stopped the car without accident. Dr. Day, Cornell's fifth president from 1937 until 1949, served as the university's first chancellor after he resigned as president.

BUGS BUNNY CONTEST COMES TO A CLOSE

The Bugs Bunny coloring contest staged in connection with the Easter season came to a close today, with a surprisingly large number of entries received. The entries will be judged and the winners announced within the coming week. Tickets to the Library theater will be distributed as follows: Six tickets to the theater as first; four as second and two for the third prize winner.

Holiday Is Observed In Financial World

By The Associated Press
Good Friday was observed throughout the most of the financial world today.

Stock exchanges throughout the United States, Canada and London were closed, but the New York and New Orleans cotton markets operated as usual mainly in order to liquidate open positions in the March 1951 contracts which expire today.

The New York Stock Exchange, and other in the United States will be open Saturday, as will commodity markets which usually do business Saturdays.

Over 100,000 CIO Meat Handlers Are Alerted to Strike

Chicago, March 23—(P)—More than 100,000 CIO packinghouse workers today awaited a strike call against the nation's meat packers.

But AFL meat handlers planned no walkout on Monday, the deadline in the threatened strike by the two big meat packing unions.

The CIO union said it was "ready to strike" when a date is set. The union's strike strategy committee met today (11:30 A. M. EST) to set a date and complete strike details.

A walkout by the CIO workers, and not by the AFL, could cut sharply the nation's meat supply, much as did a similar walkout three years ago by the CIO union. The last work stoppage, stemming from a wage dispute, lasted from March 16 to May 22, 1948.

The AFL amalgamated meat cutters and butcher workers said its 100,000 members would not strike on Monday when the present wage agreement with packers expires.

Both unions had threatened walkouts on Monday in protest against government refusal to approve an 11 cent hourly increase. The wage hike had been agreed upon by the unions and the major packers.

Mobilization Setup Faces New Storms

Washington, March 23—(P)—The mobilization program, still buffeted by labor's blasts at its wage-stabilization section, headed into new storms today.

The government's latest cost-of-living index will be announced tonight. It is expected to show a two and one half point rise between Jan. 15 and Feb. 15.

The price control office relaxed slightly its freeze on gasoline prices.

Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston said last night "too much complacency" over inflation is undermining the mobilization effort.

And Chairman Maybank (D-SC) of a senate-house "watchdog" committee ordered a broad investigation of the whole program with emphasis on wage-price controls and charges of favoritism.

The new living cost index appears certain to add fuel to labor's claims of unfair treatment.

BUSINESS IN AREA IS LOWEST OF YEAR

Pittsburgh, March 23—(P)—Business in the district last week fell to the lowest level in 1951, the University of Pittsburgh reports.

It blamed the decline on the decrease in trade volume and a drop in industrial production.

The business index dropped from 196.9 per cent of the 1935-39 average in the week ended March 10 to 185.8 last week. It was 202.5 at the middle of February and 210.8 at mid-January.

Over 3,300 Chutists Make a Surprise Combat Landing In Area Back of Enemy Forces

Tokyo, March 23—(P)—American paratroopers bolstered by tough Rangers jumped behind Communist lines north of Seoul and shocked some 20,000 Red troops into hasty flight.

The paratroopers filled the sky with the brightly-hued parachutes like a massive Easter bouquet.

But the Communists rallied later and were fighting desperately to surround and wipe out the 3,300 outnumbered American jumpers.

An armed column spearheading a fresh Allied drive by three divisions north of Seoul linked up with the paratroopers near the drop area south of Munsan.

Lines of infantrymen trudged up the road for miles behind, moving to the aid of the hard-fighting "chutists."

A second column rolled through the road center of Uijongbu and fanned out to the east, north and west.

But the Reds won back a commanding peak four miles northwest of Uijongbu and late Friday were pouring heavy artillery and mortar fire into the Allied positions.

Munsan is 21 miles northwest of Seoul and only nine miles south of Red Korea. Uijongbu is 11 miles north of Seoul.

Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway landed in his light plane on a dirt road near Munsan only 29 minutes after the first paratrooper jumped.

Field dispatches said the Eighth Army commander at one time was in the thick of a heavy firefight.

The parachute operation was carried out on a fast schedule. C-119 Flying Boxcars roared over the one-mile drop area on express train schedule. The paratroopers had only 20 seconds from signal to "hit the silk."

Ammunition cases, jeeps and artillery followed down after them.

Earlier, some 60,000 Reds had been reported in the area, with dug in defenses 25 miles wide and 15 miles deep to the Red Korean border.

In central Korea, an American patrol pushed within two miles of the border north of Chunchon. It met no Reds but was halted by the deep and swift Pukhan river.

But elsewhere in this "central area, a field dispatch said, Red Koreans stepped up their resistance. The Communists were dug in 10 miles south of the border around Red-held Mt. Kari, a 4,000 foot peak.

In northwest Korea, F-86 Sabre jets damaged two Russian-type MIG jets Friday. Fifteen American Sabre jets tangled with 30 or more MIGs near Sinuiju.

Moment Before Bailing Out Tense Time For Paratroopers in Flying Box Car

Somewhere Over Korea, March 23—(P)—In the belly of the big flying box car the paratroopers sat huddled together on bucket seats and waited.

They were tense and tight-lipped as the bulky twin-engine troop carrier plane droned toward the drop zone behind enemy lines, 21 miles northwest of Seoul.

Some smoked nervously to pass the time. Others dropped their heads and tried to doze. But nobody could sleep; in a few minutes they would jump.

The tension would snap and they would be drifting to earth, and perhaps come to grips with the Communists.

Some of them would break bones in landing, that is an operational risk. The drop zones were narrow. The paratroopers had only 20 seconds to bail out after getting the signal.

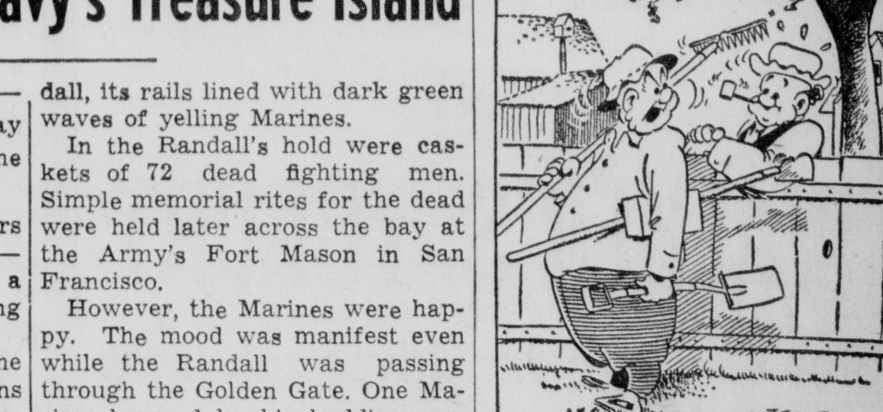

Sgt. W. H. Berkley, Nashville, Tenn., crew chief and engineer of the plane, remarked:

"I have jumped a lot of guys, but you know, I've never seen them open their parachutes. I'm always too busy doing other things. I have to relay the signals to them and everything else."

It wasn't long until he was giving his first signal—an alert that the target was only 20 minutes away.

Some of the paratroopers snuffed out their cigarettes, made a (Turn to Page Thirteen)

Hal Boyle's Comment

By HAL BOYLE

New York—(AP)—Somewhere in Korea weeks ago an American soldier picked up an enemy propaganda leaflet.

Ever since then the questions it raised have haunted him and members of his infantry squad.

The faded leaflet—it is on my desk now—is a greeting from "The Chinese people's army volunteer forces" to the American troops. It wished them a Merry Christmas and a peaceful New Year and asked:

"Why are you here slaughtering the Korean people and burning their homes down—freezing and dying 5,000 miles from home when you belong with your families? Why aren't you enjoying a turkey dinner like the Wall Street financiers who sent you here to fight for their profits?"

"We do not want to fight you, and we bear you no ill-will, knowing that you, like us, are ordinary laboring people and that you have been duped by American warmongers and their Wall Street bosses.

"We only want you to go home, so that we Korean and Chinese people can build the lives we want and live in peace."

Somewhere in Korea Sgt. Donald Caine of the Eighth Cavalry Regiment sat down and wrote a letter in pencil. He put the leaflet in the envelope and mailed it to me.

"We realize that enemy propaganda is one of their greatest weapons," he wrote. "But in our position how can we help but believe parts of this? So we'd like for you to help us get an answer to some of these questions."

I don't feel I'm the one to give the answers. But here is my reply to Sergeant Caine and the boys in the fourth squad of the first platoon of the first battalion of the eighth regiment of the first U. S. cavalry division, fighting somewhere in Korea since last July:

"That leaflet would trouble any honest man if it were true. But it isn't true. And it isn't simply an earnest plea for peace, written by one soldier to a soldier on the other side.

"It is the effort of a skilled propagandist. He wants to confuse you, to make you homesick, to make you doubt your cause and feel your sacrifice are useless and unnecessary.

"If he should succeed in making a majority of American soldiers feel this way, we will have to pull out of Korea entirely. And, in time, I think that means we will have to fight a third world war in our own homeland—and our own families will become, the refugees.

"You aren't fighting for the profits of Wall Street financiers—or just to save Seoul or Taegu. You're fighting for a chance to keep war forever away from your own town—Main Street, U.S.A.

"Of course, it is true the average Chinese soldier doesn't in his

The Nation Today

By JAMES MARLOW
Washington — (P) — There's still nothing definite about the plan proposed by selective service to give high school graduates draft-deferment for college if they can make 70 in a special test.

This plan was disclosed last week. Since then selective service has said nothing about it. Nor has it offered even an explanation of what is meant by "70" in a test. This is an attempt to give an explanation, obtained from a completely reliable source other than selective service.

It's generally agreed that some youths should be deferred from the draft so they can complete their education in college and beyond because of this country's continuing need for a supply of college-trained men.

At present, under the draft law, only men 19 through 25 are draftable and many of those in school have had their induction postponed because they're in school.

But congress at this moment is considering changes in the law, perhaps to permit drafting of youths as young as 18 or 18½ years. Final congressional decision on this hasn't been reached.

Under the law the president can lay down rules—it's called issuing a directive—about deferment of youths, such as those in school.

For many months many educators have been working with Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey and his selective service people to find some fair and reasonable system for deferring men who want to go to college or are in.

Brain and willingness to work in school are the two main factors. So Hershey proposed that high school graduates be deferred for college if they can make 70 or more in a special test.

(Once they were in college, their continued deferment under this proposal would depend on their standing in their class.)

Hershey sent his recommendation to Charles E. Wilson, boss of mobilization, and Arthur Fleming, who serves under Wilson and is chairman of Wilson's special board on manpower policy. This board is made up of top government officials.

This board will meet Thursday to consider Hershey's recommendation.

But just what is this mark of "70"? Is it an intelligence test, an aptitude test, or what? Experts in college tests might explain it another way, but this is the layman's explanation:

It's simply a test to show whether a youth could be expected to do college work successfully.

PERSIAN CRISIS

General Eisenhower might be credited with second-sight in his recent statement before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that, from the military standpoint, he would like to see Spain, Yugoslavia, Greece and Turkey brought into the Atlantic Pact set-up to strengthen its right flank.

Since then Iran (Persia)—one of the world's politico-military danger spots—which lies up against that proposed Allied flank, has exploded into internal disorder. Martial law has been clamped on the country for two months.

The trouble involves discontent of the tenant farmers in their relations to the wealthy land-owners. More important, it involves widespread opposition to continuation of British majority control of the rich Persian oil wells by agreement with the Tehran government. Actually the Tehran parliament has voted tentative nationalization of the oil fields to the exclusion of England.

Communist influence from adjoining Red Russia is said to be inspiring much of the trouble. Thus the affair slimmers down to a struggle for control between the Soviet Union and Britain with her Allies in this strategic land of the peacock throne.

Iran is the zone where west meets east. The great power, or powers, which can claim Iran as ally, can dominate the whole vast Middle East and the lifeline to the Far East. And from the standpoint of Russia it also means that she could have her long-sought access to the Persian Gulf.

Moreover—and this is vastly important—the Persian oil fields are so extensive that exclusive access to them by a group of nations might be a determining factor in establishing the balance of military power. That is to say, if Russia gained control it would give her military potential a mighty filip. The same would be true of the major western nations, of course.

That is why the present situation in Iran contains the danger of another World War.

Lent, the great period of fasting in the Christian church, which began on Ash Wednesday, forty days previous to Easter Sunday, not counting Sundays, comes to a close this weekend. According to historians Lent originally was a period of but forty hours. Later it comprised thirty days of fasting, omitting all the Sundays and also all the Saturdays except one. Pope Gregory added Ash Wednesday to the fast, together with the remainder of the week. The last day, Maundy Thursday, commemorates the Institution of the Eucharist, and today, Good Friday, commemorates the day of the crucifixion. Mohammedans celebrate the day as the day of Adam's creation. Among Germans Good Friday was sacred to the goddess-mother, wife of Odin.

GOOD FRIDAY

In one of his many fine volumes James M. Barrie has related the legend that was passed on to him by Nansen, the explorer. It is to the effect that long ago a certain monk wandered into the fields and a lark began to sing. He had never heard a lark before and he stood there entranced until the bird and the song became a part of the heavens. Then he went back to the monastery and found a doorkeeper whom he did not know and who did not know him. Other monks came, and they were all strangers to him. He told them he was Father Anselm, but that was no help. Finally they looked through the books of the monastery and these revealed that there had been a Father Anselm there a hundred or more years before. Time had been blotted out while he listened to the lark.

Time should be blotted out, too, as we gather again about the cross of Jesus Christ. Here we are lifted from the contemporary to the eternal, from a too great concern for the timely to a dimly felt awareness of that which is everlasting. The Cross reminds us at one and the same time of our sinfulness and of the immeasurable forgiveness of God. "Does God care?" some ask. Calvary is the answer as to how much He cares. Who is not moved to confess in all reverence and sincerity at Christ's cross, "all we like sheep have gone astray; we have turned every man to his own way and the Lord has laid on Him the iniquity of us all." Cleansed and forgiven through Him who has loved us and given himself for us, should there not be a new dedication on our part to the things of His Kingdom?

The Story That Comes Down Through the Years

Here And There

Fifty years ago when Good Friday came on April 6, the day was observed generally as a holiday, as it is now, according to a paragraph in "Topics of the Times," in The Evening Times, which says: "This is Good Friday and is being observed generally as a holiday throughout the United States. Locally the banks and brokerage offices are closed and services appropriate to the day were held at St. Joseph's and other churches."

Page one of the same issue carries an interesting article concerning Easter flowers, as follows: "Huge banks of palms, long rows of hyacinths, strings of smilax, various shades of clematis, dainty daffodils, huge beds of violets and roses and carnations galore comprise the Easter floral displays of Warren greenhouses. At Offerle's the display of cut flowers, roses and carnations was extensive. All the flowers had been home grown and were as pretty as could be desired. The palm bank was large, among it being one monstrous specimen. Mr. Offerle said the trade this year was double what it was last and there was a large demand for almost every variety of flower. The carnation house was filled with plants in bloom in every shade of pink. The houses of Wilton Lott were more extensively stocked with special Easter flowers. He also stated that business was better this season than last. Every year the trade in Easter flowers exceeds that of the year before, and now it is even greater than the holiday season. Mr. Lott has a fine collection of lilies, comprising over 100 plants. His violet beds were extensive, containing about 2,000 flowers. One room contained 5,000 carnations. Notwithstanding the amount of stock on hand Mr. Lott said it was nearly all gone and that no roses or carnations could be bought in the surrounding cities, as everything was being kept for home trade. The Easter showing in Warren greenhouses surpasses anything seen here in several years."

Editor's Note: Mr. Offerle's hot houses, known as the Glade Green House, were located at 16-18-20 Conewango avenue. Mr. Lott's place of business was 345 Pennsylvania avenue west.)

This 'n That: After a busy week spent in Harrisburg and Philadelphia, State Senator L. E. Chapman arrived home this morning to spend the Easter weekend before returning to the state capital for another busy session. . . . Charles Fleeger, of Warren, attended a recent meeting of the Lions Club of Tionesta. . . . Shoppers have already started beating the Easter deadline, as was indicated by the crowds in the stores Thursday, and that reminds us all retail establishments will be open until nine o'clock tonight and all day tomorrow until five o'clock. . . . Over in Crawford county the political pot really is simmering with two announcements this week, including that of County Commissioner George R. Wright and Prothonotary Paul D. Slayton, both of whom will seek re-election this year. . . . With 210 wild turkeys released by the Game Commission to add to the growing flocks already established, it should not be long until this game bird will be plentiful in Warren county. . . . Most retail establishments in Warren closed today from twelve until three o'clock in observance of Good Friday. . . . And youngsters, who have been enjoying the Easter vacation, are reminded that schools will resume next Tuesday. . . . Sunday sales of beer and liquor would be prohibited in clubs under terms of a new senate bill introduced by Sen. Guy B. Robinson, presented this week, which would also end beer and liquor sales in clubs at two a. m., during the week end at midnight Saturday. . . . According to advance reports all florists will be busy early Sunday morning delivering corsages!

Economic Aspects of Japanese Treaty Pose Tough Problems

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Purely economic aspects of making a peace treaty with Japan present some interesting problems. Most attention so far has been paid to the political and military parts of the treaty. Whether or not to rebuild Japan's army and navy and to make Japan an independent nation is of course the first worry of countries which the Japs overrun in the last war.

But whether to rebuild Japan's industrial and commercial might presents even graver risks. It was the old Japanese empire's business aggressiveness—the desire to create a greater east Asia co-prosperity sphere—that really started the last war in the Pacific. Japan wanted to dominate the whole Oriental market, with its billion potential customers.

The Japanese have been, and are today, the only people in the Orient with the capacity and potential for a highly industrialized civilization. At the end of the war a deliberate effort was made to cripple this capacity. In particular, plants that could make armaments were dismantled.

Japan's steel producing capacity is 10 million tons a year. Only 10 per cent of U. S. capacity, but it's important. If the Communist block of countries had it, it would be that much of an additional strain on American steel-making capacity, and it might throw the balance in favor of the Commies. So Japanese steel production must be maintained.

THE same is true of electric power, aluminum and copper production, textile and chemicals production. The trouble is that Japan's former sources of raw materials for these manufactures have been cut off.

In the case of steel, Japan formerly got its iron ore and coking coal from Manchuria. Red China and Russia now control those supplies. So if Japan's steel production is to be kept going at capacity, it may be up to the United States, Canada, India, Indonesia and other countries to make up the deficiencies. And if the Commies take over all of Southeast Asia, Japan's rice supplies will be cut off.

This may mean the setting up of some new trade patterns on top of the old patterns which contributed to Japan's prosperity before the war. In the opinion of American trade experts, this can be done. But in doing it, a lot of opposition from the British, Australians, New Zealanders, Filipinos and other neighbors of Japan must be overcome.

They all fear revival of Japanese competition in the Pacific. They don't want to see the Japanese merchant marine fleet built up again. It was third largest in the world before the last war. Japanese competition made it awfully tough for other sea-faring nations because, with cheaper labor, they could undercut rates.

THERE is some belief, however, that Japanese exports can be directed to benefit U. S. government interests. The Point Four program offers an example. Building up the economy of so-called underdeveloped countries requires a lot of plows, hand tools and other hardware that they can't make themselves. If these countries could buy it cheaper from Japan, it might ease the burden on the U. S. taxpayer somewhat.

Collecting reparations from the Japanese is another subject close to the heart of many countries overrun by the Japs. This is particularly true of the Filipinos, who are having a hard time making both ends meet. They would like ready cash damages from Japan. Indonesia, Indo-China and Malaya still show scars of Japanese occupation. Even Darwin, Australia, got bombed by Jap planes.

The argument against reparations is that the Japanese simply don't have what it takes to pay them. As far as the Filipinos—the biggest sufferers—are concerned, they have already received more post-war aid from the United States than they would be able to collect from Japan in reparations.

Letters to the Editor

It was notable in the meeting called for hearing on Rent Control that all but one of the speakers were emphatically against continuance of control. Reasons stated and instances cited showed the unfairness of the present law. One speaker said there was a housing shortage but the building of 50-apartment house would not alleviate the situation because the rents would be out of the reach of the average man. When investors put money in rental housing today, they are free to charge an exorbitant rent and secure unjust usury on their money; the landlord held under rent control, owning property for many years, cannot possibly pay taxes and upkeep and realize 1% on investment under present conditions. What justice is there in a law which applies to some property owners and not to others? None whatever. A law which is so discriminatory is un-American and should be abolished.

Property Owner.

Warren, Pa.

Dear Mr. Editor,
I'm really scared. I thought that a lot of us fought to save the good old land of freedom. Apparently we fought to bust it wide open economically.

If your figures on the cost of the Veterans' hospital in Erie are right, we lost the war. The AP dispatch stated that the 203 bed hospital has cost $6,500,000. Man, that's more than $31,000 per bed. Well, I guess that's the way we do in this country, but I don't want my kids to hear about that gold trimmed hospital. They might revise any honorable opinion they have about their old man having been through the war. You see, they might get wise to the fact that they have to pay for that place, along with all the other debts we are gently saddling on the coming generation.

Yours for figures,

SYLVANIA

ELECTRIC PRODUCTS INC.

To the People of Warren

Dear Friends:

The year 1950, in most every respect, was the best year Sylvania has enjoyed in its entire fifty years. How successful we were can be seen from the highlights from our Annual Report. But this prosperity was not ours alone.

It is a great source of satisfaction to us to know that others shared in our prosperity. Last year, for instance, Warren enjoyed the benefits of a $1,700,000 Sylvania payroll. This was a $700,000 increase over 1949 and was due to increased employment and higher salaries and wages.

In addition, of course, are our local purchases of all utility services, heating and maintenance supplies, various kinds of contract work, and numerous day by day requirements of one kind or another, all of which swell the total share of the community in our prosperity.

Without additional floor space, further expansion here was impossible. Through the efforts of the Warren Industrial and Development Corporation, the new 86,000 square foot building on Lexington Avenue is fast becoming a reality. This is typical of the teamwork we have received from the community and by continuing to work together we will both secure the maximum benefits.

To our friends and neighbors in Warren, we extend our appreciation for the splendid cooperation they have given us.

Sincerely,

R. J. Hartung

Name Is Adopted For Warren County Historical Group

At the seventh program meeting of the group of Warren county persons interested in local history, held in the Jefferson room of the Warren Public Library Thursday, it was decided to adopt a name for the organization and hereafter it will be known as the Library Historical Group.

A map of the county was displayed and the location of cemeteries made upon it, for the purpose of making a record of burials, especially in abandoned places and very old graveyards.

A list of places and structures is being compiled, with the intention of photographing whatever is of historic interest. Work is continuing on indexing the newspapers from the first edition to date.

Seventeen persons were interested listeners as the chairman, Mrs. William Vogt, told of an extended study of old houses in Warren county as they followed four periods of architecture, namely: the pioneer period, ending in 1785, post colonial, Greek revival, and Gothic revival.

The slides which she had taken showed many splendid examples of these worthy types and the historical background for most of the structures was very interesting.

The next meeting of the group will be April 19, with Dr. C. J. Frantz presenting a program concerning German immigration into the county.

Erie Doctor Gives Interesting Paper At Medical Meeting

Dr. Murl Kinal, neorosurgeon of Erie, gave an interesting paper on "The Relief of Intractable Pain" before the regular meeting of the Warren County Medical Society, held at the Conewango Club.

Dr. Kinal stated that pain in itself could not be accurately measured. It is usually of short duration and associated with diseases which can be treated and cured, but when associated with cancer or some other very chronic disease it becomes severe and intractable.

The speaker reviewed briefly the history of pain-killing drugs, many of which were known in ancient times. Opium, hemp, hashish, mandrake, coca and others are mentioned in early medical writings, and derivatives of these are still used today. He urged that medical treatment of intractable pain should always be tried first and, should this fail, surgery may be considered.

Dr. Kinal pointed out that nerve surgery for the relief of pain was discovered long ago, when it was noted that cutting a nerve produced numbness and loss of sensation in the part affected by the nerve. However, it also produced paralysis of the part and was, therefore, not used extensively.

Later, when more accurate knowledge of neuroanatomy was gained, it was possible to cut the nerves as they emerged from the spinal cord and produce relief of pain without paralysis, but large areas of the body were made numb.

Later still, he said, it was found that pain fibres were present in certain areas of the spinal cord and when these areas were cut, pain was relieved without much loss in sensation of touch or pressure. This operation is called a cordotomy and will relieve intractable pain in a high percentage of cases in most of the organs of the abdomen or pelvis. When the pain is in the chest, neck, face or higher, a cordotomy will not work and other procedures must be tried. One of these is a sectioning of the sensory cortex of the brain and is called a topectomy. A second procedure, developed in the past five years, is a pre-frontal lobectomy or cutting of the white matter of the frontal lobe of the brain. In this operation, the patient may still have his pain but it does not seem to bother him. The operation also produces unpredictable changes in personality and is still too new to properly evaluate its results.

Dr. Kinal closed by repeating that surgery for intractable pain should be considered only after medical treatment had failed.

The Changing Landscapes

RALPH G. ECKERT

Hello, Folks. Well we have certainly had a typical example of March weather this last week. The nice days started the urge of "spring fever" but it was usually damped-off by the well interspersed cold spell, snow or rain.

One rough afternoon, between snow squalls, Clarence York succeeded in completing the conservation farm plan on his Yankee-bush farm. Clarence is troubled with two wet areas and plans to build two or three diversions. These diversions will remove the excess water, before it collects, and remedy the present wet condition.

Oscar Lauger, well known Pittsfield farmer and Warren County's State Champion Potato grower, completed plans on two of his farms. The other farms have the capabilities maps made and are ready to be completely planned when convenient. Oscar has already started straightening stream channels, clearing and reclaiming land that has been idle for a long time in preparation for increased plantings.

Clyde Swanson, of Swede Hill, made his conservation survey map this week and while it did not reveal anything new in connection with the poorly drained soil, to Clyde, it did confirm his experiences with plowing, especially that small area of real dark soil behind the house.

Bob Scott and Jack Decker SCS technicians have been busy staking out diversions and races to be built this spring.

Charles Swanson, Pine Grove farmer along the Russell-Lander road is going to build a diversion above his buildings to help control erosion and dry up the wet area around his house.

Owen Armitage, down Spring Creek way, is going to build three diversions on his farm along Oil Creek road. These diversions plus the grassland farming he is working into will control the erosion and water problems for him. Recently Owen was talking to a farmer in New York state and was told that diversions were the "real thing" for poorly-drained ground.

It seems that farmers in other places as well as Warren County are becoming aware of the need for conservation measures and the necessity for applying these controls to the land as quickly as possible.

Fire Engine No. 2 Damaged in Crash On Way For Test

Engine No. 2 of the Warren Fire Department was damaged about the front end and pump in a collision early yesterday afternoon at the railroad underpass on the Morrison Run road. Amount of the damage has not yet been estimated.

The truck was operated by W. J. Welsh, Jr., boro firemen, who with Fire Chief C. A. Albaugh was taking the equipment to the Warr-Penn reservoir for testing following an overhaul of the pump.

The car involved was operated by C. Duane Kittner, Clarendon RD 1. Damage to Kittner's car was estimated by state police at $250. No one was injured.

According to the accident report filed, the collision occurred when both vehicles approached the underpass. The truck stopped, but defective brakes on Kittner's car failed to hold in time to avoid the collision.

State police said that no arrests have been made, pending further investigation.

Today's Business Mirror

New York.—(P)—Uncle Sam has been having trouble in getting from his friends the tin, rubber and wool he needs at prices he wants to pay, but today he finds himself on the other end of the stick. His friends and neighbors are howling because he has cut down on their supply of sulphur.

The sulphur shortage is now world wide and the clamor is growing. The United States produces 90 per cent of this chemical which is essential to many industries. Its critical shortage threatens to cut back production in many fields, here and abroad.

"Our record production of brimstone—from which about 80 per cent of essential sulphuric acid is made—just disappeared last year," says an American sulphur producer. "The demand was tremendous and there was some stockpiling."

"The official price is $21 to $22 a ton. But we have heard that one factory owner who needed sulphur badly for his production, paid $100 a ton recently for a supply here in New York harbor."

Normally the United States exports around one million tons a year, but the national production authority has cut that back to an annual rate of 800,000 tons. Even so Washington predicts that this year demand here will exceed supplies by 500,000 tons.

British industries and the Canadian newspaper mills are squawking. A top British official, Harold Wilson, chief of the board of trade, is planning to fly to Washington to beg for more sulphur. He says British defense production will suffer without it. Sulphur is used in rubber making, oil refining, steel making, rayon production and in automobile batteries.

The Canadian Pulp and Paper Association says the cutback in sulphur, all of which it gets from the United States, might mean a newspaper shortage here next summer.

American farm leaders are worried because sulphur is also used in combating crop pests, and this year the United States is hoping to grow more crops than last year and will need more sulphur.

World production of sulphur, from brimstone and pyrites, was around 11,700,000 long tons last year. The United States produced a record 5,350,000 long tons of brimstone. But the great spurt in industrial production throughout the world, particularly in the United States, melted that supply away in no time. During 1950 U. S. consumption of sulphuric acid increased by one million tons.

Efforts are being made to expand production here and abroad. But sulphur industry spokesmen say that other sources of sulphur not yet tapped could be worked only at costs greater than the present price of brimstone under the general price freeze. Industry leaders say Washington may be asked to give subsidies or preferential price treatment to increase production from these low-grade sources.

Rome reports today that sulphur production in Sicily is to be stepped up to help combat the European shortage. Last year Italy produced 1,407,000 tons of crude sulphur and 179,000 tons of fused sulphur. Sicily is the largest producer in Europe.

Alternative sources of sulphur here are being explored. Industrial processes often produce sulphur as a by-product. Much of this is wasted because the cost of refining the byproduct sulphur is high.

However, the house agriculture committee recommended earlier this month that no further defense plants be approved for accelerated depreciation unless they include facilities for recovering of sulphur where possible.

Farm Land Values
In Pennsylvania
Show An Increase

Harrisburg.—The value of Pennsylvania farm land has gone up sharply in recent months and farm labor is becoming increasingly scarce, according to a Federal State general crop survey announced today by the State Department of Agriculture.

Prospects for the 1951 Pennsylvania fruit crop were still good on March 1, date of the survey. The gathering of maple sap and making maple sugar and sirup was in full swing. Tapping of trees in the northwestern section of the state was well advanced by mid-February and a good flow of sap was running during the latter half of the month. In Somerset, the leading maple county of the State, the tapping of trees was general at the end of the month. Scarcity of labor and fuel was hindering operations in some localities.

Cold snaps during February were not overly severe and warm spells were sufficiently short to forestall premature swelling of fruit buds, the survey disclosed. Stands of winter grains and grass seedings were mostly in good condition. Fields in northern counties had good snow cover until mid-month. The much delayed harvesting of corn progressed slowly and considerable remains to be picked or husked in northern, western, and a few central counties. Quality of that left standing when the late November storm hit Pennsylvania has been impaired and some is a total loss, the Department said.

The first half of February was cold and wintry with ice, rain and snow hindering field work. Warm days after mid-February thawed soils and caused country roads to break up. Frequent rains kept the ground soft. A little plowing was accomplished in well drained fields but field work generally was somewhat behind schedule on March 1. Routine chores, repair of buildings and equipment occupied most farmers' time. Clearing of fence rows and woodlots and pruning of trees received some attention. Rainfall totaled 3.4 inches for the month. The 60-year average for February is 2.75 inches.

fear. And freedom is your goal. Eventual freedom in the world from war and fear and hunger.

"You came into Korea under a blue and white flag of the United Nations, pledged to bring unity and freedom to that country. Why is the Chinese so-called 'volunteer' there? He came under the red flag of real slaughter—the slaughter of the long dream of Korean independence.

"And if he wins there it won't be just Korean independence that will disappear. Step by step the Red armies of China and Russia will march across other countries unable to defend themselves alone—and gradually swallow the world piecemeal.

"That would be quite all right, too, if it meant a better life finally for us all. But Communism hasn't been able to do that anywhere. Freedom has always brought more happiness than slavery. And it is better to fight for a free world than a slave one.

"It is a lie that the Korean people want you to go home. They want you to stay and help them win a real peace. They dread the Chinese, and you know it.

"The truth is you are a military pioneer, fighting for the first time on a barricade defending all mankind's yearning for a final world peace. It's always lonely on a barricade, but no soldiers ever fought to hold a higher wall of hope.

"And if you hold it, the race of man will honor you forever."

CLARENDON WSCS

Clarendon, March 23—The monthly meeting of Clarendon Methodist WSCS was especially well attended Tuesday evening, with 16 present. Devotions and program were directed by Mrs. Evelyn Meley, who gave a short talk on the life and work of Mahatma Gandhi, from Vincent Sheeham's book, "Lead, Kindly Light".

Mrs. Meley was assisted by Mildred Steele in presenting "A New Day"; Kay Miller gave a solo, "Lead Kindly Light", and Mildred Steele sang one of the Mahatma's favorite hymns, "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross". Jane Nelson was their accompanist. It was pointed out as significant that these two hymns were used in every prayer meeting conducted by Mahatma Gandhi.

Mary Campbell directed a quiz on articles in the current "Methodist Woman", which was followed by the regular business meeting presided over by Genevieve Kinch. Gertrude Damm and Alice Nelson acted as hostesses in serving the usual delightful refreshments.

Its Great Name is Free!

Standard equipment, accessories and trim illustrated are subject to change without notice.

If there were some way to strip a Cadillac of every identifying emblem it possesses, and judge it solely by the way it rides and handles and performs—it would still be quickly recognizable as the "Standard of the World."

But think what a Cadillac brings you in addition to the solid value of its engineering and performance and comfort and handling ease—the wonderful Cadillac name!

Perhaps in all the world, there is no inanimate object which speaks so eloquently as the Cadillac shield. It talks of background, of progress, and of faultless workmanship.

We deeply regret that we are unable to deliver new Cadillac cars without some delay. But the demand for the car is unprecedented—and much of the company's energies and materials are now being devoted to the needs of national security. Once the car is delivered into your hands, however, we know you'll agree that—patience never brought a richer reward.

RESOUNDING DOUBLE MAY TIP DECLARER

By OSWALD JACOBY

Written for NEA Service

When today's hand was actually played, South knew something that doesn't appear in cold print. West had doubled the contract of four spades as though he had found a thousand dollar bill in the street and could hardly believe his good luck. Hence there was absolutely no doubt in South's mind as to where all the high cards were.

West won the first club trick and led the ace of clubs, whereupon South ruffed. Declarer next led the king of spades and another trump to dummy's ace. Now South returned a heart from dummy and put up the ace instead of taking the finesse. He followed with the queen of hearts, obliging West to win with the king.

West dared not return a club or a heart, since dummy would ruff.

TIME TRAP

By ROG PHILLIPS

Chapter 4
FORGOTTEN amid all these wonders of advertising developed in to a fine art were the reasons for their being here, and the threat of the mysterious and now unreal Varg Thrott. They gazed enraptured as country people visiting a city for the first time.

At last they came to a window in which a gentleman dumpy filled a glass of water from a real faucet, dropped a seltzer like tablet into it, held it until the tablet dissolved, and then actually drank it—every thirty seconds. Gyrating in the background, yet somehow preserving their order of spelling, were letters announcing that South-a-Seltz dissolved eight-tenths of a second faster than any other brand.

"Ah! A drug store!" Joe said. "You know, with all this movement of stuff in store windows I'm beginning to feel seasick, Ray."

"Then take a South-a-Seltz," Ray said, grinning. "I'm beginning to like all this."

"Like it?" Joe said, pulling up short in the doorway of the store. "I think it's ghastly—a horrible monstrosity created by fifty years of hundreds of shrewd schemers thinking up more and more ways to make you advertising conscious."

He shuddered realistically and pushed into the store. Ray Bradley followed him. Inside, it looked much like an ordinary drugstore of the modern 1950 type. There was a string of phone booths at the far end. They started toward it, walking down the aisle next to the lunch counter.

They were directly in front of the picture on the wall behind the lunch counter before they noticed it. They stopped abruptly and looked up at it—frozen.

It appeared to be a twice as large as life, three dimensional photograph in the type that portrait photographers all over the country were beginning to feature in 1950.

It was the head and naked shoulders of a seductively beautiful girl; but one thing after another leaped from that picture into shocked awareness. Her pointed chin and smooth curve of jaw were dainty and elfin. Her skin was creamy perfection in texture. Her hair was a billow.

Chapter 5

HALF AN HOUR LATER their rescuer led Ray Bradley and Joe Ashford into a bricked side passage that ended against another of the secret concrete doors that formed a part of a basement wall.

There were no lights. They kept together by holding hands until they reached the foot of some steps leading upward.

"Act casual," their rescuer warned. "And—my name's Val Nelson. This is the hotel I live in. I'll make out like you were just in for a short chat, and you can leave openly without any trouble or questions."

"Hotel?" Ray asked. "Then how about our getting a room here? We don't have a place to stay yet."

"Oh?" Val Nelson said, coming to a stop half way up the stairs toward the crack of light underneath a door at the top. "Then that explains your carelessness. I've heard that the Varg Thrott pays little attention to things that go on in the country. For the last couple of weeks the police have been acting like they were on edge about something. The slightest suspicious act brings down a dozen or so of them with questions and clubs and even mass arrests."

"Nobody knows why?" Ray asked, reaching out in the dark and squeezing Joe's arm in a warning.

"No," Val said. "Let's go up. I'll go out first and make sure the hallway is clear. Maybe the room clerk'll have a couple of vacant rooms for you. What's your names?"

Ray told him. They continued up the stairs. Ten minutes later they were safe in a large room overlooking the street from the third floor.

"You're safe for now," Val said. "If you don't mind, I'd like to bring a couple of friends over to meet you. They're probably around the hotel somewhere, so I won't be long."

"Sure," Ray said. "Go ahead."

"Why didn't you tell him where we came from?" Joe asked as soon as Val Nelson had gone.

"Just playing it safe," Ray said. "We don't know who he is—or anything else about the setup here. It's better to keep our mouths shut and our ears open until we find out more. Anyway, do you think he would believe us?"

"But the Vargian police know about us," Joe said. "Did you get the connection? He said they had been on edge for the past six weeks. That would be starting ing dream of rich golden clouds. But—her forehead was high, and wider than it should be, and in its center slept a dreamy eye of milky blue, resting above two slanting lines of eyebrows. Beneath those lines, as on another face almost, were two eyes awake, normal in size where that other was enormously large; and one of them twinkled with merriment and laughter from blue-green depths, while the other stared with cold gray frigidity and inhuman cruelty—arrogant.

The face—each of the two awake eyes seemed to sound the spirit of each side of that superhumanly beautiful blend of features. The red lips brought into juxtaposition two spirits, one smiling and innocent, resting lightly on the upturn of the lips under the mischievously twinkling eye, the other cruel and sadistic in the slight downward quirk. The whole was monstrously beautiful.

In vivid crimson above the head, seemingly far in the distance and large, were letters of melting strokes, saying, VARG THROTT.

"GOD!" Ray heard himself mutter. He became aware that people around him were looking at him and Joe uneasily. The normal conversational noises were suddenly hushed. The silence seemed to hold fear—and menace. He felt his eyes drawn back to the picture on the wall. By an effort of will he forced himself away and dragged Joe with him, on toward the phone booths. "Snap" out of it, Joe, he muttered. "People are beginning to notice us." Inside he felt a growing, icy numbness. There was no possible question of doubt—that three-eyed head was that of Varg Thrott—and Varg Thrott was a woman, and not human.

He glanced back across the store and saw the dozens of eyes upon him, fear and suspicion lurking in their depths. Across the store at the entrance people were crowding out, whispering to those who were coming in, who then turned and joined those leaving.

"Stripes," he heard Joe grumble at his back. "How can I find the address of that number? You have to know the name."

At the front of the store he side of escape was suddenly reversed. People were stumbling and falling as they were pushed back by uniformed men—men a foot taller than those they were pushing, and in whose foreheads rested that third, tumorlike eye of milky blue.

Ray felt a tug at his coat. He turned. A hand was motioning for him to follow from the depths of the phone booth. He didn't hesitate or question. He jerked Joe out of his concentration on the phone book. The arm in the booth vanished. The back wall of the booth was an open door.

"Come on, Joe," he whispered, and stepped through. Joe followed. The secret door closed and heavy bars dropped over it. They were in a narrow passage between walls.

"That was awfully close," the man who had rescued them said grimly. "The Vargian police will probably tear the store down to find this passage now. What was the matter with you two? Don't you know better than to act suspiciously in the front of a Vargian spy screen? There's certain to be a monitor watching." He pulled his lower lip angrily. "Lucky you had sense enough to guess your only escape would be back by the phone booths, though. Otherwise you'd be on your way to the local torture center and blabbing your guts out."

Joe opened his mouth to say something, caught the slight warning shake of Ray's head, and remained silent. The man who had rescued them turned and led the way along the narrow passage to a dead end—which slid aside when he touched his toe to a spot in it. They passed through and made a right angle turn into another passage between walls, so narrow they were forced to turn sideways.

At the end of this second passage they climbed down the rungs of a metal ladder to the basement level. Their rescuer lowered the cover back into place and bolted it, then, without a backward glance, crossed to the wall of the basement and touched a spot that opened part of the concrete wall into a brick lined tunnel.

The tunnel was short, opening into a round concrete bore barely five feet in diameter that stretched ahead into darkness.

"No, I don't refuse to talk," Ray said half angrily. "I just mean that anything we say will have to start from that, and if you refuse to believe that, it's no use talking."

"Wait a minute, Craig," Neal Smith spoke up. "Take a look at their clothes. They're the same kind of cloth as some that used to be up in the attic at home when I was a kid. They belonged to my grandfather."

Craig felt of the lapel of Joe's suit. He examined the buttons thoughtfully.

They do look like clothes worn about fifty or so years ago, although the cut is modern—but styles repeat themselves. They would have to be before the zoot-suit era of 1930 to 1935, though, because with the reversion of styles the new plastic cloth came in just the same, if they are spies in their clothes don't mean a thing. The Varg Thrott could duplicate them and make it look authentic."

"That's right," Neal agreed. "It comes back to what we thought when Val told us about these guys. They can't do us any good, and it's safer for all of us if we get rid of them. Why run chances?"

"You're hasty?" Val Nelson spoke up. "Let's take them and you know who—and let him decide." He can put them under a lie detector and find out the truth."

"Not necessarily," Craig said skeptically. "They could have had their lies planted by hypnosis, so they actually believed them to be true. But you're right. We'd better pass this problem on higher up the ladder and let someone else take the responsibility for killing them."

"You're sure cold blooded about it," Joe Ashford said. "I don't think I'm going to like you guys at all—especially if you kill us."

The three men smiled. "Would you mind telling us something?" Joe asked, taking their smiles as a good sign. "Just what is this all about—this Varg Thrott, spy screens, and you fellows with your 'higher ups' and your being so cautious you want to kill us to play safe?"

"That don't work," Neal Smith said sharply. He pulled out a soft hollow tube and pointed it at Joe Ashford. "I'm beginning to see what you're up to. You have a signal generator on you, and right now you're stalling until the police can triangulate and locate us. Get going."

April Draft Call of 80,000 Cut in Half

Washington, March 23 — (P) — The Army announced today it is cutting in half the April draft call of 80,000. It announced the April call has been reduced to 40,000. An increase in voluntary enlistments and a decline in Korean casualties made the action possible, the Army said. The Army notified Selective Service headquarters that the reduction in the quota could be made "without interfering with the planned expansion of the Army's strength."

Over 3,300 Chutists Make a Surprise Combat Landing

(From Page One)

Two tank spearheads paced the Allied drive north from the old South Korean capital. Tanks rumbled up mine-pocked roads behind crews of engineers who dug up the explosives.

Infantrymen trudged behind the tanks. Their lines stretched for miles.

The airborne assault was completed in one hour.

AP Correspondent John Randolph, who watched the landing from an accompanying plane, said the varied chutes waited down "swinging in the air like giant floating novenas of many colors."

Ammunition cases, jeeps and artillery swung like pendulums as they chuted down.

"It would be beautiful—really beautiful—if it weren't so terrible," said Lt. Col. T. A. Edwards of Tulsa, Okla., a U. S. Eighth Army intelligence officer.

The paratroopers met no opposition in the first minutes after landing.

They slipped out of their chute harnesses and ran into skirmish order standing up—something men never do when bullets are flying.

But as they pushed out from the tight drop area, they ran into opposition from small, scattered groups of Reds.

Some of the Reds put up a stiff fight.

The airborne infantrymen knocked these out with their artillery and some fighter plane support.

Communist troops apparently were all around the paratroopers. An Eighth Army staff officer in the parachute force said there was continuous fire on the boundary of the drop area.

Ridgway said the operation was aimed "to kill the enemy."

The only mishap of the huge air-drop was the explosion of a C-119 flying boxcar cargo plane in the air after it delivered its paratroopers.

AP correspondents Tom Stone and John Randolph, who witnessed the air-drop from accompanying planes, said there apparently was no contact with the enemy ground troops by the paratroopers at the initial landing.

The flying boxcars met no anti-aircraft fire. No enemy planes rose to try to break up the surprise Allied move.

United Nations warplanes blasted Red-held hills just ahead of the paratroopers.

The drop began at 9 a. m. and was completed in an hour.

the committee they never took money from Crane.

O'Dwyer said he made another denial of the money-taking charge before a Manhattan grand jury looking into Crane's record in regard to some $135,000 reportedly missing from the firemen's union funds.

After the O'Dwyer-Crane testimony before the senators about the purported $10,000 contribution, Committee Counsel Rudolph Halley commented "one man is lying."

Moran, appointed to the $15,000 a-year lifetime job of city water commissioner by O'Dwyer just before the latter left office last year, resigned his post yesterday under threat of ouster by Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri.

Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.), probe committee chairman, said he asked the Justice Department and U. S. Attorney Irving H. Saypol in New York to go over the entire record of the hearing in New York for possible perjury prosecutions against O'Dwyer, Moran and others.

Bonn, Germany—Some Allied officials fear that a gulf is widening between Germany and the West which is strengthening the hand of Soviet Russia.

Forty-seven million west Germans in the center of Europe are becoming increasingly restive under Allied occupation controls, these officials say.

Behind-the-scenes bickering and distrust between Allied officials and German leaders is reported mounting. In Bonn, the capital, a drumfire of criticism against the Allies is heard.

Allied officials say western Europe's growing confidence in its ability to defend itself against the Communist threat is not matched in Germany.

They concede that West German leaders sincerely hope to align the nation with the west, including an eventual German armed contribution to the Atlantic army. But German leaders tell Allied chiefs in private that they cannot pass rearmament legislation until the last

"Where did you get this phrase you have been using?" asked Wiley, a lawyer.
"I heard it on television," Guzik replied. Spectators jammed into the ornate, high-ceilinged senate caucus room roared with laughter.
Kefauver told reporters he had been informed that Guzik was seen before he testified with George F. Callaghan of Chicago, who appeared as attorney for racketeer Tony Accardo when Accardo was questioned by the committee here Jan. 5.

Senate Scans Bill to Curtail Duties of Game Commission

Harrisburg, March 23—(P)—The state's sportsmen watched today to see what action the assembly will take on a bill to strip the game commission of its power to fix bag limits during the various game seasons.

The bill introduced by Sen. Samuel B. Wolfe (R-Union) has received senate committee approval and is awaiting final action by that body. If approved it would go to the house for further action.

Sen. C. Arthur Blass (R-Erie) chairman of the senate forests and waters, game and fish committee believes the power "should be in the legislative arm rather than an administrative organization."

He contends "the legislators can more fully represent the desires of Pennsylvania's sportsmen on this matter."

Another bill creating interest was introduced in the house by Reps. Allen M. Gibson (R-Warren) and Harris G. Breth (D-Clearfield).

The bill would allow fish wardens to make arrests without warrants under certain conditions. These include:

Obstructing an owner on his property; digging in cultivated land; leaving garbage, bottles or cans along a stream's banks; leaving gates open or breaking down fences; committing any nuisance; disturbing livestock adjacent to streams.

The bill has won house approval and is awaiting action by the senate.

Over in the senate, Guy B. Robinson (R-Wyoming) has introduced a bill to raise the legal size of pickerel which may be taken from streams to 15 inches.

Sen. Blass' committee has approved a bill which would permit the state to cooperate with the federal government on all fish restoration and management projects.

The chairman said "this would include state cooperation on such problems as bringing back to the Susquehanna and ending of the dead fish problem in Erie."

The joint state government commission, a legislative research agency has recommended that the state be trucked around the dams currently blocking their way up the river. The federal has offered to provide the trucks if the state will give its approval.

Reps. George C. Goodling (R-York); Harold A. Yetzer (D-Berks); and George C. Shoemaker (R-Schuylkill) are sponsors of a measure which would authorize the joint government commission to undertake a $20,000 two-year study of migratory fish problems.

METROPOLITAN LEAGUE (Bowladrome)

Warren Baking Company tightened its grasp on the top rung of the Metropolitan Tenpin League ladder at the Bowladrome last night, but an interesting fight is shaping up between Angove's Market and Larson Building Co. for second place.

In last night's results, the Bakers blanked the second-place Angove's squad, while Larson's whitewashed GLE. In other matches, O. K. Service topped the North Warren Firemen, 3-1; Beyer Construction beat Miller's Confectioners by the same score; and Mar- ceta's Lunch topped Ralph's Mar- ceta, also by a 3-1 count.

The Bakers' record now shows 73 wins against 31 setbacks. Angove's showing is 67 and 37, while Larson's are close behind with a 65 and 39 rating.

Harry Clepper, anchor for the Bakers, battered the maples for a 235-182-223-640 series, and his team mate, Gordon, hit for 177-169-218-564. Paul Stanton led the Angove's squad with 176-175-209-560. A 143-231-181-561 series was credited to Gene Brecht.

The U. S. Fish and Wildlife service reports that, in 1950, Michigan again led the nation in sale of hunting licenses. Her total of separate large game, small game and trapping licenses was quoted as 1,031,035.

The Keystone State was second in the nation last year, having sold 834,091 licenses. The sale comparison between Pennsylvania and Michigan is not indicative of the number of persons who hunt and trap in the two states, because Pennsylvania's single license allows its owner to hunt both large and small game and to trap. Non-resident licenses sold in Pennsylvania in 1950 totaled 24,000 as compared to Michigan's 12,000.

In areas where such operations will be beneficial to wildlife, food and cover corpsmen under the direction of game protectors fell second growth timber of little or no commercial value. This program is conducted on State Game lands during winter months.

In making these slash cuttings, saplings and small pole-size trees are not completely severed. Some of the tree fibre and bark remain uncut so that saplings so felled retain some life for a year or two, continuing to leaf out. Thus, excellent food in the form of buds and twigs is provided for deer when they most need it. Rabbits and grouse also benefit from the additional nesting and escape cover resulting from these cuttings.

Commenting on cutting operations, Game Protector William R. Overturf, Youngsville, said: "I have closely observed benefits to game through slash cuttings. The browse placed within reach of deer in selected areas is really benefiting these large game animals. In fact, the deer like the rations so well they often bed down at the edge of slashings so that they will not have to go far for food when they get hungry again."

The Great Gamma

Stanislaus Zyzsko, the great Polish wrestler, who had twice won the title of World's Champion by defeating some of the best grapplers in America, had the well known "Indian sign" hung on him when he met the practically unknown Gamma, a Mohammedan, who was the champion of India. Zyzsko readily accepted a $10,000 offer to meet Gamma in Bombay, expecting to have an easy time of it with a "skinny" native of India. Gamma, however, was by no means skinny—he was a short chunky man with muscles of iron, only 5 feet 7 inches tall, weighing 260 pounds... without an ounce of fat on his entire body.

Gamma polished off the great Zyzsko in just 8 seconds, probably a world's record in wrestling. Zyzsko later claimed it was like wrestling a wild animal with the ferocity and strength of a gorilla, and he felt sure Gamma would have killed him right there in the ring if he had attempted to continue the match after Gamma threw him. Gamma was besieged with fabulous offers from American wrestling promoters but he was supremely indifferent to money and refused to leave his beloved India.

The new Oldsmobile on display here at Carlson's Service Stores has "amazing power and strength". Come in today and inspect this car that has stood high in public favor for so many years. Ask for a demonstration ride and place your order NOW.
